You are entitled to receive information from me regarding methods, techniques, fee structure and duration (if known) of the sessions. You have the right to seek a second opinion from another therapist or terminate therapy at any time.

The information provided by you during counseling is legally confidential except as required by law and is privileged communication and cannot be disclosed in any court of competent jurisdiction in the State of Colorado without the consent of the person to whom the testimony sought relates. There are exceptions to the rule of confidentiality that can be explained and will be identified to you should any situations arise during therapy. Some of these exceptions are listed in section 12-43-218 and in the Notice of Privacy Rights you were provided. In general, the exceptions include a "threat of serious harm to yourself or others" as in the case of child abuse, suicide, grave disability; under a court order; or in response to any legal action taken by you against this agency. You should also be aware that provisions concerning disclosure of confidential communications shall not apply to any delinquency or criminal proceedings, except as provided in section 13-90-107 C.R.S.

In a professional relationship, sexual intimacy is never appropriate and should be reported to the board that licenses, registers, or certifies the licensee, registrant or certificate holder.

You should know that supervisors and other therapists detailed on the attached addendum may provide supervision and/or consultation to each other. As such information regarding your case may be made available to staff and contractors of Healing Connections Counseling as is warranted for administrative and/or clinical care coordination.
